More Dresses, More Suits, More Savings A Clearaway Monday in the

Women's Dress Salons

A clearing of fine merchandise like this is of vast importance to women, and concerns especially those who are going away for the summer and needing traveling suits and a variety of dresses—and thrifty women who want pretty dresses for mid-summer and suits they can wear well into October, for the least possible expenditure.

Every garment in the clearing is in good condition—most of them new, only in stock a few days. There are hundreds of dresses here that you have not seen before—and scores of other garments that will be a happy surprise at the prices we have put on them for Monday.

Wonderful Little Summer

Dresses for Monday at $5.00

Except for a special purchase, they would be priced at $10—they are all fresh, new and charming—all perfect in style, fabric and design. The most popular materials are employed in the making; sheer, crepe voiles, filmy crepes, ratine stripe voiles, Dolly Varden and Dresden patterns—white with pretty color touches.

$1.25 For $2.50 Dresses

Cool, pretty Dresses for morning and porch wear, made of striped lawns and batiste, and prettily trimmed with embroidery or lace; low neck, three-quarter sleeves.

$7.50 for $15 Dresses.

$14.95 for $20 and $25 Dresses.

$20 for $40 and $50 Dresses.

$25 for $60 and $65 Dresses.

These four groups are made up of very fine, high-class Dresses, all new and in perfect condition. The materials are French voiles, fine crepes and novelty fabrics. They are wonderful values at these prices.

$2.50 Silk Blouses at $1.35

Charming Blouses of white silk of good, heavy quality—some in all-white, others have collar and cuffs of striped habutai silk.

Three groups of white Lingerie and Voile Waists are specially priced for Monday at

$1.00, $2.00, $3.00

More Short Ratine Coats Have Come

We have been unable to supply the demand for these pretty little garments, and shipment after shipment has come and gone as fast as the coats could be shown.

Here is a fresh supply, the same fa-scinating style—made of ratine in white, old blue and Nellore; the price is the same—$5.75.

$1.00 Will Go a Long Way Monday in the Undermuslin Section

We bought a drummer's entire sample line of women's Night Gowns; they are beautiful garments, and of values not to be had under any ordinary conditions at such prices. There are two groups and we are going to sell them Monday at two prices—

75c—$1.00

Also Corset Covers worth up to $1.00 are priced for Monday at 39c each.

Have You Seen These New Opaque Petticoats?

Priced at $1.00—they have come to fill an urgent need. Cut on slim, straight lines; but made of heavy domestic, with double front and back panel; finished at bottom with buttonhole scallop; to wear with thin dresses.

Net Petticoats and Princess Slips, prettily trimmed with bands of ribbon and ribbon bows; very dainty and desirable to wear with lingerie frocks; priced at $1.98 each.

69c for new and dainty Gowns; made of blue, pink or white crepe; chemise style, lace trimmed.

$1.19 for beautiful Gowns of seco silk, pink and blue; prettily trimmed with lace and ribbon bows.

$3.48 for new white mesaline Petticoats, heavy quality of silk—opaque—made on straight, slim lines; accordion-plated flounce; 38 to 44-inch lengths.

$1.00 for white Satin Petticoats finished with buttonhole-scallop edge.

committee refused to discuss the nature of the conference, further than to say that it took in the whole scope of Nicaraguan affairs. The striking point suggested by the secretary of the committee was the subject of informal discussion among members of the committee during the afternoon. It is believed the proposal will find much support from both democrats and republicans.

Members of the senate tonight proposed to believe that should the Nicaraguan canal be made for the United States, the United States should be taken in respect to Nicaraguan affairs. The committee was not prepared for the further suggestion made by the secretary of state today. After a meeting lasting more than an hour, the conference was continued until next Tuesday.

The committee is said to have upon the Nicaraguan canal, and the Taft administration, but has been strongly urged by the Wilson administration to support the proposed canal. The Wilson administration is anxious for the consummation of the treaty, it is understood in the hope that the canal will be made for the United States. The Wilson administration is anxious for the consummation of the treaty, it is understood in the hope that the canal will be made for the United States.

The Nicaraguan canal route would come permanently under the control of the United States. The Wilson administration is anxious for the consummation of the treaty, it is understood in the hope that the canal will be made for the United States.

GEORGIA SOLONS VISIT AUGUSTA

Gov. Slaton and Legislators Shown Over Medical College and Treated to an Old-Fashioned Barbecue.

By T. B. Cooner, Special Staff Correspondent.

Augusta, Ga., July 29.—(Special.)—Augusta has gained an advantage of which it is justly proud. The state capital, which has been the scene of many a grand event, has been the scene of a grand event.

With the governor of the state, some of the state officials and a large proportion of the legislature within her borders, Augusta has been the scene of a grand event.

The train was run right into the heart of the city, where the visitors were met by Judge Callaway and the members of the Medical college staff. Assembled in the college building, the crowd waited for a short time, the governor and his party were then taken to the Medical college building.

After the buildings and hospitals were inspected, the party was taken to the homes of the city, where the visitors were treated to a grand event.

Probably none of the visitors who attended the barbecue enjoyed it any more than did Governor Slaton. Next to the pleasure of giving a barbecue, the governor said, was the pleasure of attending one given by others.

When all had been fully satisfied and in the best of good humor Judge Callaway, who had been the host, was taken to the homes of the city, where the visitors were treated to a grand event.

After a ride over the city in automobiles, the party was taken to the homes of the city, where the visitors were treated to a grand event.

Two Negroes Wounded. Waycross, Ga., July 29.—(Special.)—Two negroes were killed and one wounded in a fight which took place in the city of Waycross.

The fight took place in the city of Waycross, where the two negroes were killed and one wounded. The fight was a result of a dispute over a woman.

After a ride over the city in automobiles, the party was taken to the homes of the city, where the visitors were treated to a grand event.

Mr. Higgins was fatally stabbed and the other was wounded. The fight was a result of a dispute over a woman.

Three weeks time. It is said that it will be impossible for the Mexican government to put up a regular force of more than 5,000 men against them.

Indeed, the general impression is that the United States is ready to stay out of the dispute over the canal route, and that the United States is ready to stay out of the dispute over the canal route.

But right here the shadow of the Monroe doctrine rises. If the United States is ready to stay out of the dispute over the canal route, and that the United States is ready to stay out of the dispute over the canal route.

Further, he replied, "I don't expect Conley's indictment to result from the meeting."

The grand jury will meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning to take up the indictment of Conley's case. The grand jury will meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning to take up the indictment of Conley's case.

That the solicitor will make every effort to have the grand jury reconsider their action in investigating Conley's connection with the case is expected that the grand jury will meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning to take up the indictment of Conley's case.

It is said that several of the members of the grand jury are desirous of following the wishes of the solicitor and letting Conley's case alone until the disposition of the indictment against Frank.

The statement issued by the solicitor for Frank's defense is in full as follows:

"Councilman Frank has been retained from making a statement for the grand jury on the indictment against him. The grand jury will meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning to take up the indictment of Conley's case.

MRS. NINA FORMBY WILL NOT RETURN FOR TRIAL

Woman Swore That Leo M. Frank Tried to Engage Room on Night of Murder.

Mrs. Nina Formby, who signed an affidavit in the Frank case in which she swore the superintendent had endeavored to engage a room at her house, 190 Piedmont avenue, during the night of the murder, will not return for trial.

A letter has been placed on file in the office of the solicitor for the defense, in which she has stated that she will not return for trial.

At first it was intimated that the state would put her on the stand, but on account of the woman's character, it was later considered of little value.

PLANS EXTENSION FOR PARCEL POST

Reduction in Rates Also Coming, Says Postmaster General Burleson—System Is Growing in Popularity.

Washington, July 19.—Plans for the extension, improvement and reduction in rates of the parcel post were announced today by Postmaster General Burleson. The changes, which are to become effective on August 1, include an increase from 10 to 20 pounds in the maximum weight of parcels, a material reduction in the postage rates in the first and second zones, and the abandonment of the present rate map as a means of computing rates and the substitution of a new rate table which will apply to every office in the United States. The plan contemplates the use of a large number of rates, but it is to be used exclusively for the parcel post matter.

Reduction in Rates.—While the two-pound maximum weight limit of parcels and the reduction in rates will apply only to the first and second zones, the present postage rates of 10 cents for the first zone and 15 cents for the second zone will be reduced to 5 cents and 10 cents, respectively, on August 1.

It is an expected result of the plan that the parcel post will be used more extensively in the future. The present rate map, which is based on the distance of the parcel from the office of origin, is to be abandoned. The new rate table will be based on the weight of the parcel and the zone in which it is to be delivered. The zone is defined as the distance from the office of origin to the office of destination. The first zone is the distance from the office of origin to the office of destination. The second zone is the distance from the office of origin to the office of destination.

Extension of Weight Limit.—The present weight limit of parcels is 10 pounds. The new plan provides for an increase to 20 pounds. The increase will be made in two stages. The first stage will be an increase to 15 pounds. The second stage will be an increase to 20 pounds.

Improvement in Service.—The present plan provides for the use of the parcel post for the delivery of parcels. The new plan provides for the use of the parcel post for the delivery of parcels. The new plan provides for the use of the parcel post for the delivery of parcels.

rially by the change. He points out, too, that the farmers who are led to anticipate much benefit from the parcel post will be disappointed. The cheap means of transporting their products to the consumer, and that the local merchant who trades in the products of science in the market. Popularity of System.—At the outset it was estimated that 30,000 parcels would be handled during the first year of the operation of the parcel post system. It now appears from the statistics that, influenced by the changes proposed today, the service will be so popular that the number of parcels carried during the ensuing twelve months will be more than double the original estimate.

The rate sheet, which is to be used as a substitute for the parcel post map, will be prepared as soon as practicable and attached to the parcel post guide. The rate sheet, to be made for each separate postoffice, will be worked out from the local points of the parcel post system. It will be the simplicity of the plan, it is thought, will make it easily understood by the rate of postage from that point to any other on any mailpiece, and will greatly facilitate the handling of parcel post matter at postoffice.

Under Regulations Recently Adopted.—The use of distinctive stamps no longer is mandatory and no longer is permitted to mail parcels with ordinary stamps. The new regulations recently adopted provide for the use of distinctive stamps no longer is mandatory and no longer is permitted to mail parcels with ordinary stamps.

Insurance Fee Reduced.—The insurance fee, which originally was 10 cents, was reduced to 5 cents and an order, effective July 1, reduced to 5 cents the fee on parcels insured to actual value up to $25, and a 10-cent fee is exacted only on parcels insured to actual value more than $25 and not exceeding $50. Under the new arrangement the maximum insurance charge has been reduced from 10 cents to 5 cents.

During the present month an immense—During the present month an immense amount of business has been built up in the handling of parcels forwarded by the parcel post. The parcel post is now being handled by the parcel post.

WANT ATTORNEY GENERAL AS WIDOW'S PROSECUTOR

Col. James Will Ask Governor to Appoint T. S. Felder as State's Representative.

That Attorney General Thomas S. Felder would be drawn into the prosecution of Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, now out on bond under a warrant charging her with poisoning Joshua B. Crawford, her husband, who died in 1905, was made apparent yesterday afternoon when Colonel J. S. Felder, attorney for the prosecutors, declared that he expected to request Judge W. D. Ellis to ask Governor Slaton to appoint Attorney General.

"We find that Attorney Frank A. Hooper, appointed by Judge Ellis to take Sullivan High Dorey's place, cannot serve for some reason, and we expect to have the attorney general take the matter up and work for an indictment," stated Colonel James.

Colonel James also stated that he had taken up with Governor Slaton the question of regulation papers for Fred Lumby, the man who was charged with the murder of the late Governor Slaton. # Georgian Made Money While Educating Himself

An Up-to-Date Version of the Old, Oft-Told Story of Getting an Education Under Difficulties

By
Wightman F. Melton

It Just Goes to Prove That There Are Still Plenty of Opportunities for the One Who Strives of this he carried on in connection with his school work, but the greater part of it has been done during vacation.

Marshall's Accomplishments.
The following is a list of what he has done:

1. He purchased twenty acres of land lying between Oxford and Covington, Ga., subdivided it and sold the lots, clearing enough on the deal to build a neat $2,000 cottage on Haygood street.

2. He purchased a little hill, adjoining the Emory campus, graded it down and did this work so well the people in the town, he has done, and done well, the full work required by Emory college for the A.B. degree.

3. During one vacation he did a $10,000 job of excavating and concrete work for the Central of Georgia railroad in Macon.

4. He purchased a lot, in the heart of Oxford, and built on it the only brick store in the town.

5. Securing a 10-year franchise, he erected several miles of electric main line, wired some fifty residences, stores, and public buildings, and supplied the town with electricity from the Emory plant.

6. During his junior year he secured a $1,000 paving contract in Covington, Ga., and did this work so well the people have him there now extending the work.

While putting up his electric line and building his store he superintended the repairing of two college buildings and the Oxford public school building.

7. While surveying and selling lots, building houses and stores, excavating and paving and putting electric lights in the town, he has done, and done well, the full work required by Emory college for the A.B. degree.

His Secret of Success.
The secret of Marshall's success as a proper estimation of himself and proper dependence of purpose: invincible perseverance, and attention to important practical things.

For 16 years the main strain of Oxford, leading by the Allen Memorial church, and the most used entrance to the Emory campus, has borne the name of Wharton, in honor of a celebrated Methodist minister. Some of the other streets are Walter, Benson, Haygood and Downman. All the streets are named for eminent Methodist preachers.

Recently, the council of Oxford, out of appreciation of what M. M. Marshall has done for the town, during his student days there, changed the name of Wharton street to Marshall street.

When a former student of Emory comes back and inquires "Who's been here since I've been gone?" everybody answers, "Marshall."

Is a Modest Man.
Mr. Marshall is a modest man of proper spirit. He says "Much of the credit that has been given me for what I have been able to do in the college and the town is due largely to the help and encouragement of my wife."

When asked the question, "Mr. Marshall, do you believe any man who wants an education can get it?" He replied, "Yes, if he is earnest about wanting it. And if he will stick to the work until it is finished." After a moment's hesitation, he added, "There are rare cases in which a man may have so many dependent upon him that he cannot afford to go to school. Not many men under thirty-five should allow such an excuse to cheat them out of an education. There never was a time, in the history of the world, when educated men were more needed than they are now. If a man means to do anything, he should put forth every possible effort to prepare himself for efficiency."

It would be a great pity, now, if some young fellow were to get so busy watching Marshall's career as to neglect his own. What one young Georgian has done other young Georgians can do.

"The world wants men." Let it ever be the pride of Georgians to be able to say, "We can fill the order, over and over again, and not exhaust the supply."

There was a time when a self-made man was printed out as a wonder. He drew as he made in the city. Saturday afternoon as a rule, he had received a letter from a college.

Dependent on Self Makes Man.
A prominent business man of Macon, Ga., who engages college students as traveling salesmen during vacation, says his most successful men are not those who have plenty of money, nor are they the men who are liberally helped by loan funds; they are the men who have to depend entirely upon themselves.

In the time coming when it will be said to a well-to-do young man, "That fellow deserves great credit; he stuck to his work and finished his college course, notwithstanding the fact that his father gave him more money than he needed."

In the great majority of cases it is a reflection upon a father because he cannot give his child a college education. Usually the innocent parent is at fault for his child to be educated. No one feels more keenly than he does what he has missed. Millions of fathers have been known to go to school with their children after "day in time" and to realize in the same classes with them.

As John Temple Owens recently said of Charles C. Barrett, so may it be said of M. M. Marshall, "He loves work like a glutton."

Works Day and Night.
Five years ago this self-made man arrived in Oxford, Ga., almost entirely ignorant of school book knowledge. He had never seen the inside of a geometry, nor the outside of a Greek book. He entered college, however, with these splendid assets—vigilance, body, ardent desire for knowledge, strength and firmness of character. By working day and night, winter and summer, he has succeeded in doing, in the satisfaction of existing professional children.

An interesting feature of this work is the English provision of meals and regulations for school breakfasts in Stuttgart, menus for school dinners in England and diaries for children in which the penny lunch takes a special part. A very interesting side of the work is the interest in the planning of school lunches it will be a great assistance, and will prove interesting to all women. (J. B. Lippincott Co., New York.)

William Lloyd Garrison. By John Jay Chapman. Author of "Learning," etc.

The Little Fiddler of the Oaks. By John Brackley Ellis. The author has written several novels, one which has been successfully dramatized, but all lovers of fiction will fall in love with the "Little Fiddler" long before they learn of his identity. Claude, the hero of the story, is well described as well as his chum, Rodney Bates. The book is artistically illustrated with nine full-page plates.

School Feeding—Its History and Practice at Home and Abroad. By Louise Stevens Bryant. The question of school lunches for children originated in Europe perhaps a century ago, but for the past ten years it has been growing very fast in the United States through the efforts of a few women who have been investigating through the school work the proper nutrition for the children; therefore, Mrs. Bryant's comprehensive treatise comes as a welcome addition to our work and literature on lunches for school children.

Women and Tomorrow. By W. L. George. Every woman, that is, every thinking woman, will find this book one of vital interest. Mr. George, the author, is an ardent admirer of the aims and sympathetic to a marked degree with the hopes of the feminine. He champions the cause of woman everywhere and his optimistic view of the future of the feminist movement is a very convincing argument of his ability and understanding. The book has been very highly spoken of in England, where the movement is strongest.

Record of a Georgia Educator.
When we read of the struggles of such men as Lincoln, Watt and others for an education, we are likely to class them as belonging to a period long past and gone, but there are men living today who are doing as well as long ago, and these are men of educational advancement, and not only of the press, but of the general public, for certainly there is inspiration in the history of men who achieve in the face of difficulties.

Just summer The Constitution published an interesting account of what was then being done by M. M. Marshall, at that time a member of the Junior class in Emory college.

Mr. Marshall was graduated from Emory at the recent commencement with the degree of bachelor of arts and is now about to return to South Georgia to take up his life's work.

He was in Washington city, and I met General Evans, when he was offered here and was happy to see him. I have traveled with General Evans, and I am looking forward to the trip next week to Camp Perry, Miss. and then there will be the Tucker Islands.

Mrs. Evans expresses every attribute of the traveled and cultured woman, and that social experience born of generations of world people. She has her debut in Washington city, her grandfather, being the late Judge Jeremiah B. ## Farming Methods in Germany Far in Advance of Those Used by American Farmers

By Harvie Jordan.

(Special Correspondence for The Constitution.)
Cologne, Germany, June 20.—After an extended tour of the whole German empire for twenty days, my visit has been brought to a close here, and tomorrow our delegation reaches France for a week of investigation into the various phases of rural life in the French republic. The German empire is a federation of about twenty-five provinces and small kingdoms with Prussia as the largest. Many of the small kingdoms have their kings, while others have grand dukes. Emperor William is the official head of Prussia, but has no control over the other states except for military purposes—the federation being for protection in times of war, and independent action is maintained in times of peace. The land of Germany as a whole is level, rolling, and comparatively rich, but is made highly productive by a system of intensive culture, high fertilization of barnyard and chemical manures, deep plowing and strict rotation of crops. Practically every well-to-do farmer in Germany has a large stock in many instances under the same roof, as an extension of his dwelling, where he kept a good lot of cattle, horses, hogs and sheep. Pasture is quite limited, and in the best agricultural sections the livestock are kept from year to year in the barn with small fenced quarters attached. The barns are floored with brick and cemented gutters are constructed to carry off the liquids which are carefully preserved in a mixture with the manure heap. The stalls where the cattle stand are well bedded with straw and, being cleaned each day, an enormous amount of valuable manure and rich humus is broadcasted on the soil when rotted is accumulated each year. The best sugar crop, which is also quite extensive, is utilized not only commercially, but the pulp and leaves from the beets are fed to the cattle. The most productive soils are those which are being enriched from barnyard manure, or where the farmers have a supply of cattle on hand for dairy and beef purposes. The poorest and most unproductive lands are found in those sections where the smallest number of cattle are kept. This is a matter which the German farmer can well read a lesson of profit to himself from. What is true of Germany, however, is equally true of the whole of agriculture in Europe. The richest and the largest yields of crops per acre are found in the most important cultivated soils. The south will never be able to build its present worn and depleted soil into the fertile and productive economic value of barnyard manure and the rotation of crops, backed by the extensive use of chemical fertilizers.

Potash Soil Largely Lacked

Potash soils are the main elements of chemical plant foods in Germany. The soils produced by commercial potash mines in the world are to be found here. In a country not large as the state of Texas, in the distribution of the annual output of these mines, one-fourth alone is the United States, one-half is used by the farmers of the German empire, and one-fourth is sold to the rest of the world. It will be seen, therefore, that the German farmers use each year on their soils twice as much potash as all the farmers combined of the United States, and as much as the balance of all the farmers of the world. The land is broken to a depth of from 18 to 24 inches, highly manured with compost and liberal applications of potash and phosphate. The soil, before being planted, is finely pulverized into a perfect seed bed, and the growing crops are given the most thorough and careful attention during the period of cultivation. This advanced system of scientific culture of the soil, the yield of the principal crops of wheat, rye, oats, barley, clover, and clover have increased 50 per cent in the past decade. At the present time the German farmers are producing 85 per cent of the food supplied for a nation of sixty-five million people, and only 5 per cent is imported. It is expected that within the next ten years not only will all the brandstuffs, meats, poultry, eggs, butter, vegetables, cheese, etc., for consumption with the empire be produced from German farms, but that an overplus will be exported. In many of the leading grain sections I found lands producing from 40 to 75 bushels of wheat, and 125 to 140 bushels of oats. These crops are now in the full heading stage and were the finest I have ever seen growing in any country. The farms are small in area, and are worked almost entirely by women. Village farming is popular all over Germany. The men and boys go into the nearby cities each morning and work in the factories, returning at night. The women and girls on the farm are up at 3 o'clock and after taking a light breakfast of cold rye bread, they milk the cows, feed the livestock and hoe the corn or haul out and distribute the manure. The women and girls on the farm are up at 3 o'clock and after taking a light breakfast of cold rye bread, they milk the cows, feed the livestock and hoe the corn or haul out and distribute the manure.

The Livestock Industry.

I have the opportunity of visiting and inspecting a number of the most highly developed stock-breeding farms in the Prussian empire of northwestern Prussia.

sla. Here is to be found the celebrated white and black Frisian cattle, which are so extensively used also in Holland, and which we call in the United States by mistake in the United States. There are no near dual purpose cows in the world like the Frisian and even the famed red cattle of Denmark. I visited farms where from 30 to 100 heads of these magnificent pure-bred cattle are kept for dairying and breeding purposes.

The cows have enormous udders and give an average yield of from five to seven gallons of milk daily, with a butter-fat percentage from 3 to 3.5. They weigh from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds, and are not only the finest milk and butter cows in the world, but are also a splendid type for beef. In the United States, no grade cattle are permitted among the herds on any farm.

The bulls weigh from 2,000 to 3,500 each, and are superb looking animals. In Germany, the bull is a good idea of the type of the Frisian cattle. This magnificent bull, which I personally saw, weighed 3,500 pounds and was valued at $1,000. I also saw three of his calves which had just been sold for $500 each, or $200 each. One large dairy farmer, who had been a member of the Prussian Agricultural Society for many years, informed me that last year he sold twenty calves for $5,000 each, or $10,000—an average price of $500 each. This man was making a magnificent income, although he rented the 200-acre farm upon which he operated from a baron, paying $15 per acre rental. These breeders and dairymen devote about five to ten acres of land to two-acre in pastures and three acres in food supply crops. Alfalfa is the most highly valued crop for feeding and green feeding. The breeding of cattle is carried on under the direct supervision of co-operative, cattle breeding associations, where the regulations of the cattle are carefully noted and preserved. German farmers are also giving much attention to the breeding of thoroughbred coach and draft horses. Their stud books of registration do not extend back, however, later than 1850.

I visited a number of these horse-breeding farms and attended one exhibition where the mares and stallions were brought together from the neighborhood for judging. The government officials select the stallions for breeding every two years, paying a premium fee of from $500 to $1,000 annually to the owner of each selected animal in addition to the stud fee from $10 to $25. The breeding mares are valued at $2,000 to $5,000 each, and the stallions these horses are bred for style and strength. They weigh from 1,500 to 1,800 pounds, and are fine types of the perfect horse in harness. In no other section of continental Europe or in America, have I seen better equipped and more carefully bred horses, or a more independent and money-making lot of farmers than these German horse and cattle breeders. With their 200-acre farms, elegant brick dwellings, their fine barns and pure-bred stock, they find a life of intense interest and pleasure, with an income to meet all reasonable needs. The whole constitutes a very fine fortune, as their lands are worth from $200 to $400 per acre.

German Farm Finance.

It must not be understood, however, that the present success of German agriculture is due to the fact that the industry has made in the past thirty years has come about through the individual efforts of the farmers in the Prussian empire of northwestern Prussia. Agriculture in Germany has been placed upon a strong and firm financial and industrial basis, the basis of the manufacturing and commercial business of the empire, with the backing and co-operation of the government.

The beginning of the evolution to a profitable agriculture found its initiative when the Prussian government began the establishment of land mortgage banks with the appropriation of millions of dollars of treasury funds for the foundation capital and a guarantee of long-time loans based upon land as security at a rate of interest not exceeding 4 per cent to the farmers. These loans are based upon 50 per cent of the assessed value of the lands and building improvements of the farm, and are repaid by the amortization of land gradually paying up the principal, which adds 1.5 per cent each year to the borrower of 4.5 per cent per annum, which at the end of fifty years pays off the entire loan and the interest on same. Not only does the government subsidize these land mortgage banks, which pay no dividends, allowing all the profits to accumulate into reserves, less the actual cost of administration, but the government grants small subsidies and special privileges to the organization of the smaller Raiffeisen system of banks, which grant short-time loans on personal credit to small farmers, secured by the unlimited liability of all the members of these small institutions.

The small banks of each community are federated into a larger central bank which has direct connection with the state bank of issue. So that in every instance the chain is complete from the farmer who needs money, from the local bank to the central bank, and on up to the government bank. In time of stress the government bank furnishes the funds to tide through the period of depression, giving the borrower whatever extensions are needed. The land mortgage banks issue bonds or debentures against the mortgage loans, keeping the two on a parity as to amounts of outstanding bonds and mortgages held, at all times. These bonds bear the same low rate of interest as the government bonds and have the right of investment of the funds of orphan estates and charitable institutions. The government has two objects in view in giving its financial aid and co-operation to the development of agriculture. First, the government realizes that upon profitable agriculture depends the success and development of the nation. Second, Germany has a very large standing army of 500,000 men, and the rural districts of the empire furnish 35 per cent of the strong, active, young army recruits. In addition to this, the stage of congress contains in its membership a large majority of farmers, so that the political government of the country is largely in the hands of the farmers.

Farmers' Co-operative Societies.

There are now 35,000 co-operative societies of farmers in Germany. Their membership will run from 10 to 100 members and cover the operations of every department of rural life in the empire. They are organized along strictly business lines and are operated for business. These co-operative societies are the result of first building up a strong and firm foundation of farm finance. They could not have been possible before the organization for agricultural capital. The farmers of the United States can never organize effectively for business in the production and marketing of their crops and in the co-operative purchasing of farm supplies until they have secured a financial system which will meet the needs of American agriculture for short and long time loans—dependent of the present commercial banking institutions of the United States. Our banks supply the requirements of commerce based on short time loans and current accounts. An entirely different system of banking will be required to finance agriculture, and I believe the monetary systems of the United States will soon begin to supply that need. The farmers of Germany use their local banks as purchasing agencies for fertilizers, coal and other heavy farm supplies. These co-operative societies are very strict with their members in requiring them to live up absolutely to the bylaws and regulations of the society. The Agrarian Society of Germany is organized for political strength and at present wields a most potent influence in the government of the country. The membership is very large and headquarters is at Berlin, the capital of Prussia.

Through the headquarters of this society a careful inquiry is made into the public or private record of every man seeking political office, and especially with regard to his views on agriculture. If he does not stand out squarely and sincerely for the best interests of the Agrarian movement, his name is written up and distributed among the members of the co-operative societies, and he is almost certain to fall in with the polls on election day. The Agrarians have no special political aims, they believe in voting for men who will measure up to their standards of manhood and who will safeguard the best interests of German agriculture.

A movement of this kind in the United States would very soon secure effective results at Washington and in the legislatures of the various states. The farmers of Germany are protected and guaranteed that a tariff be levied and maintained to protect the price of their farm products from other countries. This is another reason why agriculture in Germany is profitable. The best sugar industry in the production of cotton, which would not be desirable if it can be avoided. Referring again to the banks, I understand as stating that only government-owned banks are engaged in agricultural loans. There are a large number of joint stock banks which are engaged in negotiating loans on land and selling these farmers in the production of sugar. In competition more or less with the government institutions. Such banks, however, do not as a rule accept short time deposits. The commercial banks have no connection with the Raiffeisen system of small banks. They have an entirely independent system of their own, under the general supervision of the government. In a later article I shall endeavor to present more in detail the organization and operation of the agricultural banks of Europe, so that those of your readers who are engaged in rural life may have a full and clear understanding of the various systems.

Conclusions.

In conclusion, it is quite safe to say that agriculture in Germany has reached a safe and profitable basis for the farmers. This most desirable and commendable position is due to the foundation of agricultural banks for financing the large and small farmers of the empire, and the organization of thousands of effective co-operative societies.

The lands are enriched and large yields of crops secured, through the medium of deep plowing, heavy manuring, rotation of crops and the breeding of cattle. The effect of a protective tariff in maintaining the price of farm products at higher levels for the producers is not prepared to discuss in detail, as this feature was more political and did not come within the phase of my studies. But it is said in a general way to be an important support to the farmers of Germany. The women work the crops and the men work in industrial centers and the army and navy, except the best dairymen and grain producers excepted. If the women on the German farms were to "strike" and confine their attention to domestic duties as the American housewives do, except agriculture in Germany would soon become a lost art, or the factories and industries of the empire would have to bank the fire in their

SECOND REGIMENT BOYS ARRIVE AT ST. SIMONS

Camp Set Up in Record Time and Everything Made Shipshape by Noon.

St. Simons Island, July 18.—(Special.)—The Second Regiment, National Guard of Georgia, composed of companies from Macon, Columbus, Barnesville, Griffin, Jackson, Milledgeville, Americus and Albany, with a band from Shelburne, arrived at Brunswick early this morning. The regiment left immediately for St. Simons Island, sending the equipment over on a lighter.

Setting up camp was somewhat delayed on account of the equipment's late arrival, but immediately after the lighters came ashore the militiamen rapidly began unloading the equipment, driving the teams in water two feet deep. The barges were unloaded, the tents were set up, and by noon the camp was in order in time for a noonday meal, which was prepared shortly after 12 o'clock.

Informal guard was mounted late this afternoon and tonight many members of the camp enjoyed a drink at the New St. Simons hotel. The opening of the ten day encampment is greeted with pleasure by the boys as the work to be carried offers interesting instruction and the surf bathing is delightful.

Upon the women of Germany at the present time depends the agricultural and industrial welfare of the nation. This is a tremendous price for a great nation to pay. I do not believe it can last. When the mothers of a nation break down daily under a strain too great for humanity to stand, there can be but one result—disintegration, revolution, disaster. Let our mothers be given every possible protection from the hardships of manual labor from the cradle to the grave, and we will have a nation of men who will meet and overcome every obstacle in the pathway of advancing civilization into the end of time.

Education in Germany is compulsory and only two per cent of the population of the nation are illiterate. There is usually in every small village of farmers a "leader" or "headman," who directs affairs and attends to the business of the local bank and the co-operative society. Usually this man is highly educated, a graduate of the university and a man of scientific attainments. Scientific forestry is carried on under the direct supervision of the government. Its forests are now covering practically one-fourth of the entire land. There is much value to the southern farmers to be learned from the study and investigation of agricultural methods in the old countries.

The systems employed are in many respects far in advance of our own especially the methods of culture, the soil, fertilization, rotation, a large yield of crops to the acre. It is to be hoped that the present economic problems which face our farmers may in some way be solved as the German farmers have at all times overcome their difficulties, and place their business upon a parity with other great industries of the nation.

Conduct First Automobile Funeral in Georgia

Death is a part of the scheme of things. It is something that we all must meet sooner or later, and when it does occur, all too soon and often without warning, we wish to be relieved of all petty details that we may be left alone with our sorrow.

Realizing and appreciating this, the firm of Barclay & Brandon, established in 1886, and well known for its efficient service, not only in Atlanta, but throughout Georgia, have sought every means to improve their methods, and now offer

A Service Complete to the Smallest Detail

In introducing the automobile funeral to Georgia they sought to see just how good a service they could render. They wanted to be able to step in when the call for their assistance came and be able to relieve the bereaved of all details no matter how large or how small. To this end they have recently purchased

A $7,000 Packard Auto Hearse

A magnificent conveyance, wonderfully and beautifully finished, propelled slowly and carefully and offering all known conveniences to the remains of the deceased, to follow and be followed by slow-moving motor cabs.

In case of accident or illness, where the most improved means are necessary to transfer one to hospital or sanitarium, this progressive firm has ready a modern auto ambulance, built not only with an eye to strength and safety, but to easy riding. Every known convenience is employed to make the trip comfortable and safe for the afflicted and his relatives.

THE ADVENTURES OF DOTTO, THE WANT AD SCOUT--Turning Some Old Papers Into Money.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

All the News of Real Estate and Building.

"Not until Atlanta ceases to grow with her real estate market creating activity," said Harris G. White, the newly-elected president of the Atlanta Real Estate board, yesterday.

Mr. White, who is in a position to judge the Atlanta field accurately, is optimistic in regard to the coming year.

"I do not think that we shall see as many new subdivisions opening in the coming year as in the one passed," he said, "but what is a better for us now, we shall see them developed and improved."

"The majority of these lots are bought on time, usually five years. Just about a year ago, real estate began opening them on a large scale. Now many of them are paid for and the owners are planning to build. And this is a sure sign of prosperity."

"I think that this year in the realty field will see many of these subdivisions which are only partly built and completed in this respect. This has a very beneficial effect upon the city in more ways than one."

"First, it puts more money in circulation. Then it makes better citizens. When a man starts a bank account and begins to save, he is saving for himself. It is a habit that will stay with him. It is a habit that will stay with him."

"Second, it increases the building in the subdivisions, greatly increasing the town. Within but a few years we shall have all of this territory built up, and then when the time is ripe again I think that we shall again extend our borders as in the past year or so."

"As to the real estate in the central portion of the city, I think this will steadily advance, for not until Atlanta ceases to grow will the real estate cease to advance."

"I do not imagine that this coming year will see much wild speculation. On the contrary, I think that so far as the real estate market is concerned, it is in a position to be the best for the city for then realty prices are substantial."

"As a rule, in the summer months the business falls off, but this is not the case in Atlanta. The summer months are the best for the city for then realty prices are substantial."

"Frankly, I think this coming year should be one of the most successful Atlanta has ever seen. I think that real estate prices will be the best for the city for then realty prices are substantial."

Gossip of Georgians in the Metropolis

By R. S. Carver—The Constitution's New York Bureau.

New York, July 19.—(Special.)—As the head of the Baptist World Alliance, the Rev. Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur, former pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle in Atlanta, and now in his 72d year, has come to New York to save from the auctioneer's hammer one of the finest pieces of church property in Brooklyn borough—the Greenwood Baptist church. Staggered under a mortgage debt which carried them into a financial whirlpool in which they regarded themselves as lost, the members of the congregation were in the depths of despair until the Baptist Church Extension society made a successful appeal to Dr. MacArthur. In the winter of his life, to assume the pastorate and save them from foreclosure.

From the partial rest he has been enjoying after 40 years of continuous service in the pastorate of the Calvary Baptist church in this city, one of the wealthiest in the world, Dr. MacArthur hurried to the aid of the congregation. The result is the already there are indications that soon the Greenwood Baptist church will not only be clear of the danger of the auctioneer's hammer, but also clear of debt.

Backslinging to his appeal, Baptists the world over are contributing to a fund that the debt may be cleared and the salvation of this famous old New York church be effected as a monument to the clergyman who passed the allotted three more and ten, entered into a task from which younger men withdrew.

To save the church Dr. MacArthur must raise a sum of $5,000. Quietly but effectively and with results that have astonished the congregation, Dr. MacArthur has thrown himself into the work.

When the suggestion was made that Dr. MacArthur be asked to leave the church from the impending ruin, he was immediately repudiated as to his undertaking so difficult and nerve-racking work in view of his age and the multiplicity of his duties as head of the Baptist church all over the world. It was asking a great sacrifice of any man in the circumstances, but as the drowning man clutches at the straw so the congregation in the Greenwood church decided to take the only chance existing to save them from foreclosure and ruin.

Dr. MacArthur agreed to shoulder the responsibility. He said he would lay aside many of the plans he had made that he might preserve for the congregation its important church and from that moment hope sprang anew among the worshippers.

too much of an effort, so she told her mother. The latter, Mrs. M. J. Nance, promptly made public announcement of the marriage. Mrs. Nance and Corliss K. Kram, an employee of the department of agriculture in Washington, and whose home is in New York, together with a party of friends, were in New York to spend the day. While there they decided to get married. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. W. Wain, an Episcopal minister. They decided to keep the nuptial secret but the effort was too great for the bride so she gave it away. Mrs. Kram went to New York to Washington about six years ago. His bride is a beautiful Georgia girl and both have been unusually popular at the younger set of Washington for the past year.

Bishop Henry M. Turner, of Atlanta, and Bishop Hurst, of Florida, have been designated to take over jointly the work of the late Bishop William Durkin, who died at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., last March. Bishop Turner is at present stopping at Bishop's Court, 1001 Broadway, in Ft. Lauderdale. The Atlanta diocese is over 80 years old, and through an agreement he will look after the work of the late Bishop Hurst, who is much younger, will have charge of the work in the Indies and the distant parts of the diocese.

Entertaining at dinner in the Armoryville of the Hotel Knickerbocker, Wednesday evening were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Conley and Miss Conley, of Atlanta, who are in New York for a part of several weeks. Covers were laid for six guests.

Mrs. George J. Mills, of Savannah, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Henry W. Hodge, in this city, sailed with Mr. and Mrs. Hodge this week for a several months' visit in Europe, where they will motor through the interesting points in the southern part of the continent.

Miss Elizabeth Willis, of Augusta, who has been in the Philippine Islands for the past three years, landed in New York this week, being accompanied by Mrs. John Willis and Miss Nanette Willis.

Mrs. W. E. Shelton, of Macon, has arrived in Georgia and will spend the remainder of the summer studying music.

From Washington came the news this week of an interesting romance. Miss Margaret Corryne Nance, who up to a year ago lived in Atlanta, realized that keeping secret her elopement for the many months proposed would be too much of an effort, so she told her mother. The latter, Mrs. M. J. Nance, promptly made public announcement of the marriage.

Miss Elizabeth Willis, of Augusta, who has been in the Philippine Islands for the past three years, landed in New York this week, being accompanied by Mrs. John Willis and Miss Nanette Willis.

Mrs. W. E. Shelton, of Macon, has arrived in Georgia and will spend the remainder of the summer studying music.

From Washington came the news this week of an interesting romance. Miss Margaret Corryne Nance, who up to a year ago lived in Atlanta, realized that keeping secret her elopement for the many months proposed would be too much of an effort, so she told her mother. The latter, Mrs. M. J. Nance, promptly made public announcement of the marriage.

Mrs. Nance and Corliss K. Kram, an employee of the department of agriculture in Washington, and whose home is in New York, together with a party of friends, were in New York to spend the day.

While there they decided to get married. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. W. Wain, an Episcopal minister.

They decided to keep the nuptial secret but the effort was too great for the bride so she gave it away.

Mrs. Kram went to New York to Washington about six years ago. His bride is a beautiful Georgia girl and both have been unusually popular at the younger set of Washington for the past year.

Bishop Henry M. Turner, of Atlanta, and Bishop Hurst, of Florida, have been designated to take over jointly the work of the late Bishop William Durkin, who died at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., last March.

Bishop Turner is at present stopping at Bishop's Court, 1001 Broadway, in Ft. Lauderdale. The Atlanta diocese is over 80 years old, and through an agreement he will look after the work of the late Bishop Hurst, who is much younger, will have charge of the work in the Indies and the distant parts of the diocese.

A party of young women from different parts of Georgia under the leadership of Miss America Woodworth, sailed at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., on board the Austro-American liner Argentina for a tour of Europe.

In the party were the Misses L. F. Floyd, Floethe Elliott and Lella Gallard, of Savannah; Misses L. F. Floyd, Floethe Elliott and Lella Gallard, of Savannah; Misses L. F. Floyd, Floethe Elliott and Lella Gallard, of Savannah.

Entertaining at dinner in the Armoryville of the Hotel Knickerbocker, Wednesday evening were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Conley and Miss Conley, of Atlanta, who are in New York for a part of several weeks.

Covers were laid for six guests. Mrs. George J. Mills, of Savannah, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Henry W. Hodge, in this city, sailed with Mr. and Mrs. Hodge this week for a several months' visit in Europe, where they will motor through the interesting points in the southern part of the continent.

GRIM JUSTICE PURSUES MARY PHAGAN'S SLAYER

As Famous Murder Case Nears Trial the Public Mind Again Reverts to the Discovery of the Crime; and Again the Great Question Comes Up: "What Happened in the Pencil Factory Between Noon Saturday and 3:15 Sunday Morning?"

Automobile in which detectives and newspaper man went to the scene of the murder. In the machine are Detective Starnes, Harry Scott, W. W. (Boots) Rogers and John Black.

Mary Phagan, the young victim of a most mystifying murder.

By Bert Ceval.

There are times that happen right before our eyes that defy the very idea of a god to describe. The mind of a man would find itself a little shaky in the attempt to describe a scene that would become a part of the history of the world.

One of these was the night Mary Phagan's body was found. It was a night as dramatic as the day of a queen and poignant as her sorrow. It was the first thing that came to the mind of the greatest criminal eye, and it will live forever in the minds of those who knew it.

This story is no effort at description, because description is impossible. It is just a plain, ordinary story of the happenings that night when Newt Lee went down into the basement to wash his hands and emerged with fear. The discovery of a crime that put an end to the world in mourning.

A week from tomorrow, Leo Frank, manager of the pencil factory, where Mary Phagan's body was found, will be placed in the dock charged with the murder of the young girl, and it will be the first time since the dawn of time that a man will be put to death for a crime that he did not commit.

It was his custom to go only to the bottom of the ladder that ran from the scuttle hole, from which point he surveyed what little of the cellar that could be seen, in the light of a lantern. Newt seldom did he venture further. He preferred the upper floor, with its machinery and the life-like click and less possibility of phobias and spooks.

That night, however, he wanted to wash his hands. So he went to the bottom of the ladder as he had sketched the cat and dog at the desk and the use of any and all forbidden him. It was there that he always performed his meager ablutions.

With a coarse, green manager to mind all thought of everything. Newt descended the shabby ladder. A tiny flame flickered from a gas jet directly beneath the scuttle hole, but beyond the interior was as black as the void of night.

Humming his tune as he kept his mind away from other things, including fear, he walked to the sink. It was midway of the basement, just beyond the furnace. The darkness and solitude seemed to intensify that he could almost feel it, the steps beat upon his ears with a creepy thudding.

He set his lantern down beside the sink and washed his hands. Then, dried them on a newspaper. As he picked up the lantern to return to the scuttle hole it revealed something or calls, even at 1:30 a. m., are more or less insignificant. There was not even a stir as the policeman entered the booth.

"Is this police station?" came over the wire in an excited tone.

"Yes, what's the trouble?"

"Somebody's killed up here 't the pencil factory on Forsyth street. Hit—Anderson, dropped dead, never and left it swinging on the cord. He jumped from the booth and called to Sells:

"Who is it?" asked Sells, sarcastically, as he swung a porch hook to the attic above his desk.

"I'm no mind-reader," retorted Anderson, diving for the door.

The place became alive. Rogers awoke from his dose and jumped to his feet.

"Get in my car," he called. "I'll run you up."

The Constitution reporter had reached for a telephone.

"Wait a second," he was asking. "Let me call the office—there ought to be a story in this."

"Wait like a lizard," blazed Anderson. "Think we're going to murder on schedule?"

The reporter's office went unnoticed.

At 4:05 clip Rogers whirled the Alabama and Hunter across it to four stories high and loomed far above his neighboring structures. There is something in its black and gloomy aspect that is itself suggestive of tragedy. A new light from a gas jet shrouded the first floor, and the interior looked as lifeless as the body Newt Lee had discovered in the cellar.

No knowing what to expect, but in preparation for anything, the policemen drew their pistols.

Anderson knocked at the door. No answer. A suggestion was made to break through the glass, when there was a commotion in the vicinity of the stairway, down which came a streak of light—the lantern in the negro's hands as he scampered down the steps from the office to which he had fled in fright.

The newcomers rushed in as he opened the door. Their presence seemed to inspire courage.

The newcomers rushed in as he opened the door. Their presence seemed to inspire courage.

"Somebody's killed up here 't the pencil factory on Forsyth street. Hit—Anderson, dropped dead, never and left it swinging on the cord. He jumped from the booth and called to Sells:

"Who is it?" asked Sells, sarcastically, as he swung a porch hook to the attic above his desk.

"I'm no mind-reader," retorted Anderson, diving for the door.

The place became alive. Rogers awoke from his dose and jumped to his feet.

"Get in my car," he called. "I'll run you up."

The Constitution reporter had reached for a telephone.

"Wait a second," he was asking. "Let me call the office—there ought to be a story in this."

"Wait like a lizard," blazed Anderson. "Think we're going to murder on schedule?"

The reporter's office went unnoticed.

At 4:05 clip Rogers whirled the Alabama and Hunter across it to four stories high and loomed far above his neighboring structures. There is something in its black and gloomy aspect that is itself suggestive of tragedy. A new light from a gas jet shrouded the first floor, and the interior looked as lifeless as the body Newt Lee had discovered in the cellar.

No knowing what to expect, but in preparation for anything, the policemen drew their pistols.

Anderson knocked at the door. No answer. A suggestion was made to break through the glass, when there was a commotion in the vicinity of the stairway, down which came a streak of light—the lantern in the negro's hands as he scampered down the steps from the office to which he had fled in fright.

AUGUSTA'S SOCIAL SIDE

Augusta, Ga., July 18.—(Special Correspondence)—Miss Gladys Taggart, attractive guest, Miss Virginia Taggart, of Atlanta, was complimented by Mrs. Joseph C. Pyatt, Jr., at a party given at the home of Mrs. J. C. Pyatt, Jr., at 10 o'clock on Friday afternoon with a pretty bridge party. The rooms were prettily decorated with pink and white blossoms. The high score prize was won by Miss Alice Hall, the consolation by Miss Gladys Taggart and the evening gown prize by Mrs. J. C. Pyatt, Jr. The party was presented with a daily supper the occasion, a pair of white slipper trees, decorated with pink blossoms. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cranston entertained Miss Taggart's guests on Wednesday evening with a large supper party at Carmichael's. About thirty-five guests were invited to the club and had a delightful evening, followed by a lovely ride home by moonlight.

Miss Nellie Lamm entertained informally for Miss Lamm on Thursday evening at the beautiful home in north Augusta of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lamm. Miss Margaret Wright will be with Mr. and Mrs. Billings Palmer, of Athens, at Greenbrier, W. Va., on Friday. Miss Laura Tobi is with Mrs. Dorothy Russell, at Sullivan, Ga. Mr. Frank E. Bruce is with her son, Mr. Frank Bruce, Jr., at Washington, D. C.

Mr. W. Connor Cieske, and family have gone to Boston, Mass., for several weeks.

Miss Louise Duval, of Savannah, is visiting Miss Mabel Smith, on Monte Benito.

All the members of the Y. W. C. A. who went on the camp near Grantville, S. C., report a most interesting and beautiful outing.

After taking part in a family reunion house party with Dr. and Mrs. William J. Cranston, in Middleville, Mrs. Marshall Sherman, the wife of Mr. Marion Jones, on lower George street, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Sanderson, and Miss Annie Boykin have gone to the North Carolina mountains.

Mrs. Eben Doughty and children have gone to Hendersonville, N. C.

Mrs. Austin Flint, of Atlanta, is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. B. West, on Parnell street.

Rev. Victor P. Bowers, of the Second Presbyterian church, has gone with his family to visit in his old home, Hampton, S. C.

Pond parties are a popular form of entertainment among the young people these warm summer evenings. Congregating on the banks of the river or automobiles, have a swim, followed by a picnic supper and then the ride home in the moonlight.

Mr. A. J. Kipparick has gone for a sojourn at Wrightsville Beach.

Miss Frances Robertson, of Charleston, is the popular guest of Miss Margaret Addison.

Miss Westbrook's guests, Miss Nellie Graves and Miss Jessie Harris, have given a unique entertainment at Cathwood, on Mr. John Hill and Mr. Joe Murray, who are attending a party and a fish fry in their honor on Thursday afternoon, were also greatly enjoyed by a jolly party of young people.

Another entertainment at which they were appreciated guests, was a dance at Birch Island on Friday night, which was enjoyed not only by the young people of that resort, but was participated in by a number from Atlanta.

The recent fire in a large 10-cent store in Augusta having thrown a

Clipping Prices to Clear Stocks Before Inventory

Just 10 short selling days to August 1—and Inventory. On that day stocks "must be at the lowest level of the year." The order is direct from headquarters. The department heads comply. Here's the proof in these clipped prices:

Clearaway of Laces

Odd lots in small yardage grouped for clearance. Prices are next to nothing, but we won't invoice oddments. So pay for 50c to 75c flouncings—about 200 yards of 16 and 27-inch Swiss flouncings in eyelet and shadow patterns and 12-inch Baby Irish galloons.

12c for 15c to 25c shadow laces—about 400 yards, in bands and edges 4 to 9 inches wide.

5c for 10c and 15c laces—250 bolts, or 3,000 yards of Point de Paris and Round Thread Vals in edges and insertings to match, 1 to 3 inches wide.

5c for 17½c and 10c linen tuck laces—600 yards in edges and 5c insertings to match, 2 to 3 inches.

39c for 75c to $1 shadow laces—250 yards of 4½-inch allover shadow laces. A wonderful value.

Don't Miss This Beautiful Quality of 39c Fine White Voile at 25c

The best white voile that 25c could ever buy is offered for Monday only.

It is made of the white mercerized cotton thread, each mesh firm and uniform. Soft and sheer—a delightful number for cool, crisp summer dresses and waists. Very wide, 40 inches. A splendid 25c quality, for 25c.

Other Bargains in White Goods

The above white voile is simply typical of other values in the White Goods stock for Monday. Lack of space, however, forces a limited description. All white, chiefly in pieces one yard or more.

$1.50 40-inch sheer white linen lawn at 75c.

$1.75 30-inch embroidered linen waisting at 89c.

$2 best quality French linen cambric, 40 inches, 71c.

$2 30-inch white linen suiting, a great seller, 67c.

$2 all- linen sheeting, 8½ inches wide, extra good, $1.25.

$1.45-inch V-Web's crepe linen; splendid, 69c.

50c 30-inch all- linen voile, even mesh, 25c.

50c 30-inch crash linen, a great seller, only 33c.

75c 30-inch extra good all- linen crash, at 49c.

$1.75 72-inch Webb's art linen, $1.25.

35c 27-inch pongee linen. Nothing better, 25c.

All Ready-to-Wear Put to Rout

Business calls our ready-to-wear buyer to New York. He won't be back until after inventory. To insure the clearance of all ready-to-wear, he hardened his heart and brought forth his Blue Pencil. Results speak for themselves.

All White Skirts at Half Price

All our white linen, plume, ray and maise skirts that formerly sold from $3.50 to $10, are now $1.75 to $5.

$1 for any white skirt in stock that formerly sold up to $2.49. Chiefly piques and reps.

Clearaway of Many Waists

Broken lines and oddments, chiefly one or two of a kind. Prices for $4 to $25 shirtwaists—crepe de chine, silk mouselines, chiffon and lingerie. Oddments in white, black and colors.

$1.95 for $3.50 to $3.98 mannish silk shirts—Coat styles, attached collars, cuffs, and detachable collars. All colored skirts in white and colored grounds.

$1 for $1.50 to $3.50 waists—One big table of waists that formerly sold at $1.50, $2, $2.50 to $3.50. Lingerie, crepes and marquisettes. High or low neck; long or short sleeves, including the season's most fetching styles.

Up to $15 Linen Coats at $9.95

Long linen coats, smart styles for tourists and automobilists. Goodly choosing among this lot at $9.95; former prices up to $15.

Clearing the Ratine Suits

$15 to $19.75 Ratine suits $8.75
$25 to $27.50 Ratine suits $11.85

Speeding Out All Summer Dresses

MILLEDGEVILLE, GA.

The wedding of Miss Ethel Stenbridge to Mr. William Wiley Barton, of Bradley, took place at the Methodist church on Wednesday evening of last week. Rev. E. F. Dempsey performing the ceremony. Mrs. W. L. Richie played several selections before the ceremony and Miss Helen Maxwell sang "Without Thine" just before the entrance of the bride party. Little Ruth Barnes and Walter Stenbridge came last, opening the improvised cortege. The ushers were Messrs. Sidney I. Stenbridge and Geo. Middlebrook, of Haddock. Harry Tarr, of Marion, and Tom Dwyer, of Chatham, the bridesmaids were Misses Bartie Stenbridge, Marie Stenbridge, Bessie Barton, Alice May Stenbridge, Venie Montgomery and Myrtle Middlebrook. The bride entered with her brother, Mr. Walter Stenbridge, the best man being Mr. James Barton. The couple left for a honeymoon to New Orleans.

A beautiful and unusual wedding was the one which took place on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock on the lovely lawn of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Little, at which time their daughter, Miss Rebecca, became the wife of Mr. Arch McKinley. The bridesmaids were Misses Henrietta and Frances Conn, Jessie Allen and Marion Grant. The ushers were Messrs. Russell Bane, Charlie Conn, Carleton Brooks and Lee McKinley. The bride and groom, party and Whitfield. Miss Roy Algood was master of honor. The groom's brother, Mr. McKinley, was best man. Rev. Mr. Dempsey officiated. Mrs. Leon Richardson, of Athens, provided the music.

Misses Frances Conn and Jessie Allen were entertained on Sunday afternoon in honor of Miss Little's handmaiden of honor.

Miss Violet McKinley was at home one afternoon last week at a shower to honor of their bride, Miss Barton.

Friends here of both parties are much interested in the wedding. The wedding of Miss Little and Mr. McKinley will take place on Wednesday of next week.

Had a surprise was the wedding of Mr. John Jones and Miss May Meyer, which took place in the parlors of the Hotel Danmore on Sunday. Rev. W. W. Ingram officiated. Only a few intimate friends were present.

GUNBOAT SMITH TACKLES FLYNN

Pueblo Fireman Will Give "Hope" a Hard Battle if He's in Shape—Pelkey for the Winner.

By JAMES J. CORRETT.
(Former Heavyweight Champion of the World. Writes Exclusively for The Constitution.)
New York, July 19.—(Special.)—It begins to look as if things pugilistic might brighten up locally within the near future. For several months New York has suffered from a dearth of glove talent, and the promise of Matchmaker Billy Graham to stage the Madison Square Garden boxing card on the 26th is welcome news to Gotham devotees of the sport.

The first bout of importance to be staged in the garden will be between Gunboat Smith, considered by many the best of the white middleweight class, and the Pueblo fireman, and the second, the veteran of the ring, will be scheduled to get together the night of the 27th.

Flynn has been after a match with Smith for a long time, and now that he has indicated that he is entering the ring in the best possible shape, Jim realizes that a fine future hangs on the result of this match, and that he must be in very best form to make a convincing against the hard-hitting Smith.

Flynn has not taken his recent boxing career very seriously, and he has been suffering a severe slump. When he heard that the match with Smith was being staged, he was in a state of mind to give it his best shot, and he has been working hard to get back into the ring in the best possible shape. He has been in a state of mind to give it his best shot, and he has been working hard to get back into the ring in the best possible shape.

Smith, on the other hand, is a different matter. He has been in the ring for a long time, and he has been working hard to get back into the ring in the best possible shape. Of the 45,000 people in Aden, probably 800 are Europeans comprising the most part English army officers, civil officials and merchants. Probably one-fourth of the Europeans have incomes large enough to permit the purchase of expensive motor cars.

There are 10 cars in Aden, but only six motor cars are practically used. The rest are in the hands of the British consular officials and the British army officers.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, JULY 20, 1913

THE QUALITY KID

BY JOHN R. BRAY.

(Repeated From The Constitution of Saturday, July 19.)

Constitution Stands Pat

A couple of days ago an Atlanta newspaper announced a prize contest in connection with its classified advertising, in which automobiles, motorcycles, bicycles, pianos, etc., were offered for the solicitation of want ads by the public.

The following day another Atlanta paper, obviously in retaliation, announced that it would print advertising free, with some limitations, in a number of the most popular classifications.

A classified advertiser in commenting upon the matter said yesterday with some pertinency "It's The Constitution's Move."

The Constitution accepts the suggestion and announces that it

STANDS PAT AND SMUDGES THE BET

These two other newspapers are going to have a cat-fight. The result of every cat-fight is lots of loosened fur and more bad feeling. To mix the metaphors still further The Constitution is going to try to remain as an interested spectator to a somewhat unedifying spectacle.

This cut-throat competitive situation may possibly demoralize the classified advertising business in Atlanta for the papers and the public alike. Now, The Constitution does not plead especially that it is holier than the two papers referred to. It does not entirely disclaim responsibility for nor deny participation in some of the competitive conditions which have preceded the present situation. It has at times "fought the devil with fire," of which however it is none too proud. Not so very long ago in a momentary frenzy it itself offered to print classified advertising free—which in the long run did it no good and its competitors no harm.

But it is tired of the jealousy-inspired competitive business warfare of which the kind now in progress is a fair example, and it is not going to be a party to it. It can give away automobiles or print advertising free as fast or as long as any other Atlanta newspaper. But that sort of thing is stupidly senseless. Besides it does not relish the consciousness of having made a fool of itself. Its volume of classified advertising, which is very large, can go hang, if its permanency is contingent upon such measures.

But that is only the newspaper side of it. Most of the want ads produced by the false and artificial stimulus of a frenzied prize contest, or inserted because space for them is free, are frivolous or pure fakes. They do not represent serious business messages to the public. They not only injure the effectiveness of purposeful want ads, but they mislead the public, destroying confidence in bona fide advertising. Only in recent years has advertising in general acquired full confidence and it is no favor to legitimate advertisers now to engender new distrust.

For these and other less important reasons The Constitution is going to charge exactly the same rates for classified advertising as heretofore. The other Atlanta papers can give an automobile with each ad or print them gratis on their first pages in red ink if they are so disposed.

Lately, The Constitution has offered some cigars on Saturdays only for paid in advance ads. This amounted to a discount for cash rather than a prize. The offer will not be repeated.

After you have sought the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow in a prize contest and chased the will-o'-the-wisp of something for nothing in free advertising, come over to The Constitution, put your money on the counter (or we will credit you if you look good), insert your advertisement where there are no dead-heads, where every ad means business, and where you will reach the largest number of substantial people seriously interested in your message. You will accomplish your purpose quicker and cheaper. You will likely feel better about it, anyway. This something-for-nothing business does not seem to set very well with a lot of sensible people.

WHAT THE WILD WAVES ARE SAYING

Southern Merchants convention.
They are coming—coming as they never came before.

Advisers from all parts of the South say that there will be more visiting merchants here in August than there were ever at a convention in Atlanta before.

If the four thousand mark which the association has set is not beaten all indications are very much astray.

Atlanta is fast becoming known as a market where every man may come to sell his wares without fear of favor and where every merchant can come knowing that he can surely find whatever he may want.

The wise southern merchants will, of course, buy first from the firms which live in the south and which belong in Dixie, as he does. For he knows that every bit of property which comes to any southern business house has its good effect on every other southern business house, big and little.

The wise and broadminded wholesaler in Atlanta says, "If you can't find what you want in my stock, there are others in the same line of business further down the street and I would sooner you bought from them than from outsiders. Buy from me if you can, but anyway, buy in Atlanta, from an Atlanta firm."

T. P. A. JOTTINGS.

merciful awe us forever with that undignified bunkum of speech and attitude that holds up the mistakes and errors of the long ago. So long ago you are faithfully trying to do your part with the same old-fashioned way in the great now and the hopeful future.

We are on the side of right and have great faith in sane movements that should be stopped and that right soon. We like the American people will find themselves caged in by restrictions that completely cut short their freedom. We do not want to become slaves fettered by the chains of uncertain laws.

The struggle of the age in the United States is between the fanatical Puritan and his blue laws on the one hand, and the sane, law-abiding but liberal pleasure-loving people on the other. Our liberties are in the greatest possible danger.

The Puritans of old knew but one freedom and that was the freedom to worship God as their consciences dictated. They never secured one other seed of liberty, and established a worse despotism than that from which they fled. Are we to have a repetition of that stern, hard, indifferent and cruel government that reigned with these heartless people for nearly two hundred years? They could keep God on his throne in Heaven, but were powerless to establish his government on earth. It will be with religious tyrants of today. They can only restrict our liberties in this same puritanical sense. The ministers of all churches and the members of all congregations are commonly called upon for support and money to maintain jollies in the national, as well as all state capitals. These jollies are cracking the whip over our lawmakers with the mistaken idea that they can legislate the people into their particular brand of goodness. This same kind of religious zeal and feror has been shown all periods of big change in the history of the world. It is always a heroic task to overthrow great entrenched behind religion and law, the million voices of the world crying out for justice, freedom and liberty cannot be hushed until right prevails.

If our sincerely should block our way to higher preferment, we will feel satisfied with the kicks and rebuffs we may receive, knowing that we have honestly, earnestly and conscientiously stood for justice. The independents have no right, in any circumstances, to try to make the dependents of as they say. The dependents have rights just as sacred, near and dear, and after all it is said and done, as much of God's love, mercy and sunshine in their make-up as any.

We are on the side of the persecuted No man can make us believe in him when we know it isn't the truth. The world was made with all its grandeur and beauty for all—not just a few—but all.

Don't forget that the T. P. A. wants you as a member. It stands for all that is good and right.

Feibelman Returns.

Julius Feibelman, local manager for B. F. Avery & Sons, the well known glove and implement manufacturers, returned to the city last week after a three week's stay in Louisville, Ky., the home office of his company.

Mr. Feibelman has brought back with him several new ideas in the implement line and says that his firm have a number of new features which they are now incorporating in all their implements and machines. He also tells how glad he is to get back to Atlanta and says that if he were given the choice of the which of the cities to live in he wouldn't hesitate a minute in casting his vote for Atlanta.

Jim Little, of the Dougherty-Little-Ridgeway company, reports business as good with them for the between seasons time of the year. He also added that he was pleased with the progress made on their new building at 50 South Pryor. The workmen are now up to the third story and progressing nicely.

Cliff Edwards, with Fain & Stampe, was very anxious to see the Firing Line man yesterday morning. He had some kind of a story to tell about having seen Sanders. Smith leaving town early one morning dressed up in a woman's bonnet, but the full details could not be authenticated, so it is given here as it was heard.

Salesmanager C. Holt, of the Dixie Pickle & Preserving company, was a busy man yesterday noon. He was in charge of serving the barbeque given to the automobile dealers at Ponce de Leon. "Daddy" Holt is a good "cue artist."

J. G. Adair, with the M. C. Kiser company, is one of the Atlanta salesmen who can close last week amongst their "lead" ones.

CHILE CON CARNE

J. W. Hughes came in early in the week from his territory on the S. A. L. and Southern north of Atlanta, with two coppers. After selling them nice bills in the house he went out again for more.

Visitors with the Capital City Tobacco company this week were J. W. Carls, Jr. and C. J. McClanahan. Mr. Carls is a department manager and makes his headquarters in Nashville, Tenn. He is now on a trip through the South in the interest of two new brands of cigarettes, the "Tob" and the "Capitol 1-3." Mr. McClanahan, who is a division manager for the same company, is accompanying Mr. Carls on the trip.

J. D. (Batter) known as Dan O'Keefe, with the J. D. Preater company, took a nice order one day this week. It was for shorts and totaled $100, bags, or 300 tons.

City Salesman Johnston, with the Dixie Pickle & Preserving company, is doing some mighty nice business these days, and he is largely responsible for the frequency with which the "Dixie" brand is seen on the tables of the Atlanta housewife.

Manager Lynn Port, of the Lamar & Benkin Drug company, is still in Franklin, N. C., but advises that he may return to the city tomorrow or Tuesday.

W. E. Rhump, the South Carolina salesman for the All Star Manufacturing company, came in last week for a stay of about two weeks. He is enthusiastic about the latest ideas in stockwork that his firm is showing and states that he just knows he will clean up when he gets out with them again. He will have to go some to beat his past performance at that.

Max Samuels, with the Hirschberg company, was in the city for a few days this week absorbing some more Atlanta enthusiasm, and W. C. Tennant was in today in order to attend church with his family.

K. D. Brothman from North Georgia and H. R. Roberts from North Florida, are two of the John Deere Plow company salesmen who have been in the city for a day or two during the past week.

N. A. Morse, who sells Shield Brand shoes for the M. C. Kiser company, and makes his headquarters in St. Louis, has had good business for the past week, as shown by the number of his orders, one for $2,500.

James "Rainbow" Thornton, with the S. P. Richards company, was in for a little while last Friday but left almost immediately for his territory again.

H. S. Collingworth, of the Gramling-Solliday company, returned last Monday from a few days spent in his old home at Carrollton, Ga.

Brown, Ferriman & Greene company report all their men out this week and a good supply of big orders coming in from every one of them.

Banks Whitman, with John Silvey & company, reported the week after two weeks spent in southeast Georgia, where he has found some extra good business.

R. C. Fowler and Ella Whiteley, city salesmen with the Capital City Tobacco company, have now returned to the job after a period of "snoozing" at St. Simons.

E. H. Jordan, in Florida for the All Star Manufacturing company, was in this week but went back to his job Wednesday. He signaled his return by sending in a batch of orders which he got here Friday.

Ran Ballman, of the Hirschberg company, writes that he is "working hard and perspiring freely" in North Carolina.

R. C. Hipp, general office manager with the John Deere Plow company, left for Knoxville last Friday night to visit the branch office there.

A. L. Diehl, with the M. C. Kiser company, was in for a few days this week on account of sickness, but is now feeling much better.

O. C. Long, city salesman with the S. P. Richards company, has been doing unusually good business the past week since his return from that fishing trip of his. Perhaps his customers give him an order just to stop the flow of fish stories with which he is regaling everybody.

T. A. Gramling, of the Grambling company, has left for Knoxville and Indianapolis, where he will spend a few weeks vacation.

D. M. Braswell, with John Silvey & company, writes from Clenden and Yanceville territory that what they want most there is rain. They have had none for some time and the crops will suffer for lack of it if it doesn't come soon.

W. B. Carlton, of the Capital City Tobacco company, says that he doesn't want an old story I would tell you that figures show that last June was the best we ever had in the past, but our business increases as steadily any day that you must be getting tired of hearing tales like that from me.

Jack Hawkins, with the All Star Manufacturing company, has finished his Tennessee territory for the present and will be in Kentucky this week.

R. J. McCowan with the All Star Manufacturing company, has just received a large amount of good business in north Georgia of late.

J. W. Carson, of the Atlanta Casket company, will temporarily represent them in north Georgia territory for a few weeks.

W. L. Phillips, who represents the Atlanta Casket company, was in the city last Thursday and Friday.

Mark Hirschberg, with the Hirschberg company, writes from a Florida town that he had had good business there but was nearly driven crazy with the gnats. He spent Sunday last at Atlantic Beach and is evidently feeling good for he is sending in the kind of orders which bespeak a happy frame of mind.

FLORIDA MERCHANTS TALKING CONVENTION

Yon Writes Telling of Large Crowds of Merchants Who Will Be at Convention.

Tampa, Fla., July 19, 1913.—Editor Constitution Piling Linn. Dear Sir: As considerable time has passed since I last broke into your columns, I am taking the liberty of doing a little boasting for my territory. Prospects for the attendance of Florida merchants at the convention in Atlanta in August are greater than they have ever been heretofore. They are all talking it, and especially those that attended last year. Atlanta did herself much good then, and I hope she will do still better this year. Florida is good Atlanta territory. But more concerted effort in advertising the completeness of the Atlanta market should be done. Not only should the dry goods and notions and hardware, furniture, hats, shoes and millinery men, etc. These facts should be put forward as a whole in order to attract the Florida merchants to the Atlanta market.

Completeness of the Atlanta market should be done. Not only should the dry goods and notions and hardware, furniture, hats, shoes and millinery men, etc. These facts should be put forward as a whole in order to attract the Florida merchants to the Atlanta market.

One trouble we are suffering from at present is the shipping facilities from Atlanta to Jacksonville, and then the local distribution of same could be made from there, insuring delivery in from two to five days at the outside. There may be some arrangements to be made for this.

Fearing the possibility of drawing too heavily on your space, I will detain. Yours truly, THOMAS A. YON.

Atlanta Invites Competition

In no uncertain terms we want to correct any impression that may have arisen out of a recent publication about the City Council requiring a license tax upon visiting salesmen selling to the consumer.

This matter has never come up in any meeting of our association. In fact, our members are believers in an open market; all of them sell their goods in the open markets of the World, and visiting merchants can rest assured that we desire them to have every opportunity to compare prices and values with any and all competition.

The Meeting of the Southern Merchants Association has for its purpose the upbuilding and betterment of the merchants of the South and we are more concerned in its success than in any mere matter of selling merchandise.

THREE CENTS A DAY

That's all an active, wide-awake Atlanta City Salesman had to put into his budget for personal footwear.

One of our Peachtree customers reports that Mr. W. A. Quarles bought a pair of Five-Dollar Made-in-Atlanta Shoes last December. He wore them continuously up to July 15th, 210 days, at a cost to him of three cents a day.

Three miles a day is a low estimate of the ground covered, so his mileage was less than one cent a mile.

The merchant who settles on a shoe line that can make these kind of records should soon control the shoe trade of his section.

Why not come to the Atlanta Convention and; while here, go through our factory? You can see for yourself how our shoes are made, and what goes into them.

Then you'll understand why they make such fine records for long service.

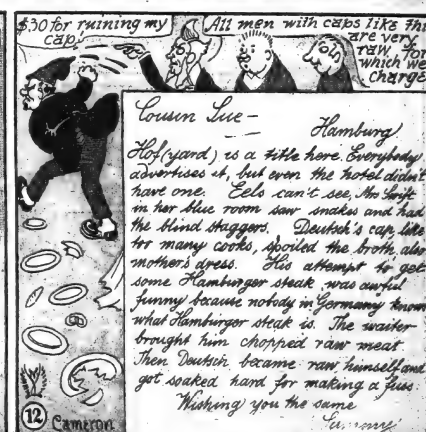

Shall we have the pleasure of seeing you?

NO RACE SUICIDE SAY TIRE MANUFACTURERS

Federal Rubber Company Will Equip Nearly Million Baby Carriages With Tires.

With all that has been written and said in the last few years about race suicide and its alarming results, and with so little substantial evidence to contravert the theory, the following facts divulged in a recent interview with Herbert A. Oltens, vice president and sales manager of the Federal Rubber Manufacturing company, of Milwaukee, are of special interest and rather impressive in their direct bearing on this much discussed subject.

Asked for an expression regarding the future demand for automobile tires, Mr. Oltens said: "When I tell you that this for this year, we have sold 8,000,000 feet of rubber tires to the leading manufacturers of baby carriages, and in addition to this shall produce 1,000,000 pneumatic tires, you will probably ask me what connection has with the other or what that has to do with the automobile business. Now I think the connection is very plain," continued Mr. Oltens.

"For this reason: These 8,000,000 feet of rubber tires will equip the wheels of something like 875,000 baby carriages and go-carts. And it is reasonable to assume that these vehicles are going to be occupied. Also that a majority of their occupants are sure to grow up and as they grow up they can reasonably be expected to develop a large percentage of 'motor bug'."

There you have the connection established.
If, therefore, 875,000 baby vehicles are equipped with Federal tires, the theory of race-suicide had been shattered. That brings me straight to the point I wish to make, which is this:
Nothing in the world but race-suicide can limit the future of the automobile tire industry. In America, and taking the foregoing facts and figures into consideration, there seems to be little immediate danger of that unfortunate condition prevailing.

RUDISALL WINNER OF SEAMANS LOVING CUP FOR PISTOL FIRING

By Ogle Grter.

A cup known as the "Georgia Cavalry Pistol Cup" was presented to Captain O. L. Rudisall, of the Government House Guard, at the armory, in the presence of the members of the troop, by Major J. O. Seaman, commander of the second squadron of cavalry, on behalf of Lieutenant E. R.
W. McCabe, United States inspector-general of the cavalry of the national guard of Georgia.

Major Seaman inaugurated pistol target firing among the officers of the second squadron while encamped at St. Simons. In June of this year it is understood that before the start of the new year that all officers and men of the Georgia cavalry will be supplied with the latest army pistols, and in an effort to arouse interest in the subject, the recent match was held at St. Simons. After this year certain enlisted men, as well as the officers, will compete for the cup.

The winning score of the camp which landed the cup was 452 points out of a possible 500.

When a carburetor float falls and a new one is not procurable, "getting home" is a matter of using one's wit.

Generally it can be accomplished by cutting down the supply from the tank so as to correspond with the flow through the needle valve.

Fine Thing for Tired Feet

When the feet are tired and aching, and jump with shooting pains, Jacobs Foot Relief is wonderfully soothing and refreshing. When the feet are abnormally, poisonous excretions clog the pores and retard circulation, and then the flaccid nerves begin to torture you, Jacobs Foot Relief gives instant relief, because it draws out the poisonous matter. It soothes and rests the feet, stops the swelling, aching and burning sensations and prevents unhealthy sweating. Put a little tablet to be dissolved in the foot bath, or it drives away all foot misery. Jacobs Foot

A Free Tire Repair Service With a String Attached

From 6 a. m. to midnight seven days a week, we're at your service.

Doesn't matter what your tire trouble may be—puncture, blow-out, etc.—phone Ivy 2339.
One of our motor cars, installed especially for this service and equipped with men and materials, will start to your assistance immediately.

The men will make all necessary repairs with that dispatch common to men that know their business. They'll save you time and trouble.
And, as you know if you've done it, it's no fun mending punctures or changing tires in a dusty road these hot days. The men will even put on a new tire if necessary. All without a penny's charge to you, save for the new tire when really needed.

IF You Use Pullman Tires, Guaranteed for 3,500 Miles. THAT'S the String. It's a GOOD ONE to Tie To.

Pullman tires offer you all—for less—that the most extensively advertised auto tires offer.
They are made of standard materials by one of the largest manufacturers of auto tires. And, our guarantee for 3,500 miles is ironclad.

Pullman tires come in all styles and all sizes.
Suppose you phone us now or come see us about prices—

Control and Convenience

The driving compartment of the C-Six is a place of wonders.

All the precision instruments, which tell what the car is doing, and all the means of control (self starter, electric-light switch, control of carburetor, ignition, gasoline gauge, etc.) are within easy vision and reach of the driver; and yet they are so neat and unobtrusive that they add to rather than detract from the extremely handsome interior finishings of the car.

This is only one example of the careful and considerate attention that has been given to the comfort and convenience of motorists.

1914 ANNOUNCEMENT PAIGE 36-$1275

Still More for the Money; No Change in Price

FOR the past season, the Paige "36" at $1275 has been recognized by everybody as such extra value that it has had no competition.
Manufacturers and dealers with cars selling at similar prices have declared the Paige "36" a gift at the price. They haven't even hoped to compete with it. They have been content to get their share of the business that we couldn't handle.

The equipment of the Paige "36" is universally acknowledged to be of a character and completeness only found on the highest priced cars. But bear this in mind—it is the Paige car itself, not its equipment, that has demanded the consideration of the trade and public alike and that is responsible for its overwhelming popularity. Clothes don't make the man and neither does equipment make a motor car. It is the superior design, the unusual mechanical features, the power and flexibility of the wonderful Paige motor, the quality of materials and workmanship, and the splendid construction of the Paige "36" throughout that have kept the thousands of Paige owners, in all parts of the world, enthusiastic over their cars and made every one of them a Paige "booster." No amount of equipment could possibly accomplish this if the car itself was not right. When you come to look at the Paige car, if you are not an automobile expert bring one with you. You can judge the equipment yourself, but let him judge the Paige construction. He will tell you that entirely aside from the equipment, no other car has ever been produced at anywhere near the price that will give you as much in fine construction, size, power, economy, comfort and style as the Paige. These are the qualities on which it will pay you well to judge your motor car.

It is hard to realize that the price of the Paige "36" is only $1275. A really big, roomy car; 116-inch wheel base; left side drive and center control, a powerful, quiet 4x5-inch Paige motor; unit power plant; steep chain drive for cam shaft, pump and generator; deep tilted 10-inch cushions and a score of other features of design and construction which place this car beyond competition. As for equipment, in every detail, from starter to tail-lamp, it is all of the highest class.

Last year a lot of big men in the trade said we couldn't afford to sell the Paige "36" for $1275, and that we wouldn't continue that price. After three or four months the same big men in the trade—alarmed at our sweeping supremacy—said, "They're making a strong play for popularity now, but watch out for their 1914 price."

Well the 1914 price is $1275, just the same. Not a dollar added in cost to you, but look at the added equipment: Electric Horn, Jiffy Curtains, Combined Rain-Visor and Ventilating Windshield, Non-Skid Tires in the rear, and Ventilating Hood.

All of this is added on for 1914 and the price remains the same. If the Paige "36" has been sensational value this year—and for every car delivered there have been many purchasers waiting—what a value it is for the coming year! No other car approaches it in value at the price, and you would have to pay four or five hundred dollars more to find more value in any car.

This isn't "advertising talk." It is just the plain old-fashioned unvarnished truth and almost anybody that knows automobiles will tell you so.

Production has been increasing steadily in the factory and we are able to take care of more purchasers all the time now. The plant is working day and night. Deliveries of the 1914 models are being made as promptly as could be expected in the case of a success like the Paige "36." Our immense new factory is under construction and our removal to it will still further facilitate Paige production.

Above all things else, the Paige "36" deserves consideration first just as a car. But consider its equipment, too. Regular equipment includes the Gray and Davis electric starting and lighting system, Bosch magneto, rain-visor and ventilating windshield, genuine mohair top (tan lined) and hood, electric horn, Stewart revolving dial speedometer, 34 x 4-inch non-skid tires in rear, 12-inch electric headlights of parabolic design in black enamel and nickel, 5-inch electric side lights, flash in dash, crystal cut lens, 3-inch electric ray light at each side of front, nickel plated robe rail, demountable rims with extra rim, jiffy curtains, extra tire, pump, jack, tools, tire repair outfit, etc., complete.

The 1914 season will be a distinctive Paige triumph. Keep that in mind. Just as the 1913 season has been a Paige triumph. Because in the Paige "36" and the Paige "25" the public finds extra value which no other car can give.

PAIGE 25-$950

Electric Starting and Lighting System, $75 extra

From this date we will equip the Paige "25" with an electric starting and lighting system for $75 extra.
The car is designed to take the equipment, and it will be added at request. Present owners can also have this system installed on their cars.
Dealers will furnish prices and details. Think of this car, with electric starting and lighting for only $100. Wheel base, 110 inches, 30x3 1/2 inch tires; sturdy, silent motor, 3 1/2 x 4 inches; unit power plant; cork insert multiple disc clutch; wide doors; roomy body.

Previous models of the Paige "25" laid the foundation for the high reputation of the Paige Car. For the past two years, especially, the "25" has been recognized as a splendid, reliable car at a low price. And all this time we have worked steadily on refinements and minor improvements many of which are found in this year's model.

Equipment of Paige "25" is very complete, including genuine mohair top, side curtains and top boot, ventilating windshield, built into body; speedometer, two black enamel and nickel side lights and tail light, demountable rims, extra non-skid tires in rear; robe rail, floor-mounted running board; tire iron; horn, pump, jack, tools and tire repair outfit. Five-passenger touring car, equipped complete as above, $950.

COTTON IS HIGHER ON HOT WEATHER

Record-Breaking Heat in the Eastern Cotton Belt Caused Nervousness in the Market and Prices Advanced.

New York, July 19.—Continued hot weather over the eastern belt, with reports of record-breaking temperatures in Georgia, caused further nervousness over the new crop outlook in the cotton market this morning, and prices made new high ground for the movement. Trading was not active, and there was moderate realizing for over the week-end, but offerings were readily taken by shorts, fresh buyers for long interest, or trade interest, and the close was firm at a net advance of 1 to 4 points.

The ruling of the cables did not indicate any particular apprehension of new crop damage, as Liverpool futures were a shade lower than those on the New York close of yesterday. The increased demand in the London spot market, however, made the opening a fairly steady one, and the closing here was 3 points lower on July, but generally 1 to 3 points higher.

Profit-taking was active enough to cause some irregularity right after the call, and a little scattered selling may have been inspired by prospects for cooler weather, but probably the market soon steadied up and became firm on the detailed weather reports which showed temperatures ranging up to 108 degrees in one of the Georgia stations, with several eastern belt points reporting 105 to 107.

Closing prices were practically the best of the day. Cotton, middling, 15 1/2; good, 15 1/4; low, 15 1/8; middling, 15 1/8; low, 15 1/8.

BACK FROM NEW YORK.

Chambers Tells of Conditions as Reflected in New York.

J. O. Chambers, the well-known traveling man with Brown, Perryman & Greene Co., returned last Wednesday from a buying trip to New York. He was gone for about ten days, and in that time used his eyes and his brain in order to see how the New York business men were regarding the business situation throughout the country. "I found," said Mr. Chambers, "that everyone is feeling remarkably good. I was a little surprised to hear practically no discussion of the tariff or financial politics. Instead of that they are all talking of the big crops they are expecting this fall and the resulting big business which every man is preparing to take care of. There is very little pessimism, and on the whole, I can safely say that I have never seen a more optimistic set of men than the wholesalers and manufacturers with whom I talked while in the big city."

"As you know, I was busy buying spring hats the greater part of the time for my firm. You may say for me that the styles next spring are going to be conservative, but pretty much back a bunch of goods that will be just about the most attractive lines in men's headwear you ever saw, or anyone else, for that matter. Yes, thanks, I enjoyed the trip very much, and I am feeling much encouraged over the future as a result."

News of the U.C.T.
Atlanta Council 18

There will be a special meeting of Atlanta 18 on Saturday, the 26th instant. Refreshments will be served and all members are urged to attend.

Brother J. B. Hardin is now in the peach business. He is continually writing and bragging about his peach farm in south Georgia.

We are pleased to be able to report that Mrs. W. A. Webb, the wife of our senior counselor, is much better and recovering from her illness rapidly.

Brother C. K. Aker was out of the city for a few days this week, but we were glad to see his cherry face around again.

Brother C. D. Montgomery, who is at present traveling abroad, writes that he is enjoying himself immensely.

Brother Hugh Smith has just returned from New York.

Don't forget that Grand Counselor R. W. Orr of the Georgia-Florida division will be with us on Saturday night, July 26.

Applicants continue to come in to Atlanta 18, but there is still room for more. Right now is the best time to join.

Any members who would like to gain a little prominence will please send their photos to Secretary Lunsford at once.

Secretary Lunsford is pleased to advise that no reports for sickness have been received by the sick committee, so infers that the boys are all standing the hot weather pretty well.

Brother R. N. Fickett, Jr., wishes to call attention to the fact that he is chairman of the railroad committee for the Georgia-Florida division, and any complaints on the roads that the boys have to make should be addressed to him.

Brother E. S. Stroud has been a frequent visitor to Piedmont lake recently.

Secretary P. S. Brownlee went selling last Friday, and says that he is getting "um." He is talking tall fish stories which anyone is at liberty to believe if they want to.

Brother G. B. McDonald has been on the sick list for a few days, but is now out again.

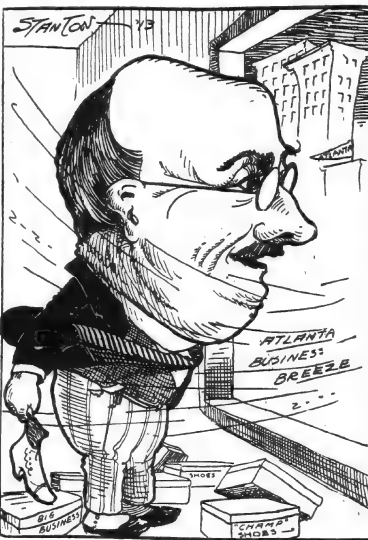

Brother H. A. Pittman, who has been residing in south Georgia for some time back, is now back in Atlanta. They all have to come home sooner or later, and we are glad to see them.

Applications continue to come in for

SOME WORKERS

FOR THE
Southern Merchants' Convention
ATLANTA—TWO WEEKS—AUGUST 4-16

NO. 6. E. G. THOMAS

E. G. Thomas is president of the Rice & Hutchins Atlanta company. He is also a hard worker for the Atlanta market and, in connection with the forthcoming Southern Merchants' convention, is a member of the committee of the association.

Incidentally, Mr. Thomas is a mighty fine gentleman and a man who has a grasp of business conditions which is excelled by few. When he was asked what he thought the prospects were for the convention he evidently gave an answer from careful consideration and a thorough canvass of conditions. He said:

"I have asked all our men what they think about the merchants coming here and they all say that there is a vast amount of enthusiasm amongst their customers and that large numbers of them are already making their preparations to be here. Personally I can substantiate this statement as far as the different parts of the territory I have been in are concerned. I was recently in Florida and was very pleasantly surprised at the wonderful condition of that territory. Our representative there has been with the firm for a good many years, yet this year is the best year he has ever had and it is also the best year the Florida territory has ever shown. On my trip there we sold the great majority of the people we called on and one day, sold a bill for every call made. The merchants there are strong boosters for the Atlanta market and they are coming to the convention in big numbers. Many of the merchants of the different towns are arranging to make parties and I wouldn't be surprised to see as many merchants here from Florida as from any state except Georgia, of course. But then again reports from all the surrounding states tell of many who will be here and maybe Florida won't lead the bunch. South Carolina will send a lot, and Alabama will also be well represented."

"I most certainly think we shall go to the 4,000 mark we have set and really I shall be considerably surprised if we don't beat that handsomely."

that big meeting at 2 p. m. Saturday, July 26.

Brother L. V. Holman, the next man, came into the city Saturday and was welcomed by some of the boys.

Fulton Council 581 continues to have good meetings and initiation work at every one. You always notice something when you fall to attend.

Who don't YOU join the U. C. T. They say promptly. Ask any secretary for all particulars.

C. S. Harley, with the Consolidated Paper company, was last heard from in Chesterfield, S. C. He sent on some good business and mentioned that he was feeling more encouraged every day over future prospects.

John H. Andrews, the Sullivan's Tobacco man, has been out with Salesman G. F. Timore of the E. L. Adams company, this past week.

Joe Wright, headwaiter at the M. & M. club, was arrested Saturday night on charges preferred by H. M. Rice, of the Lorraine apartments, on Carnegie way, of carrying a concealed weapon and pointing a pistol.

The trouble which culminated in the arrest of Wright occurred last Sunday night in the M. & M. club, when, according to Mr. Rice, the waiter displayed a "big gun" and uttered a "short epithet." The waiter, he says, made an insulting reply which he attempted to resent, when the waiter drew a revolver and leveled it upon him.

The warrants for Wright's arrest were served Saturday night by Officers Boots Rogers, of Justice Girardeau's

Wright was released under bonds of $300 upon each charge, which bonds were secured by W. A. Naill.

They all look like they are having the time of their lives and, as a matter of fact, they are. Why shouldn't they have had it when they were in Athens at the now famous barbecue given by the chamber of commerce of the Classic City to the legislative solons Saturday, July 12

There was no difficulty about The Constitution photographer catching Hugh Rowe, mayor of Athens and also chairman of the board of trustees of the state normal school, is in more serious mood. He has his hand upraised as he does when he pleads with legislators to give an open ear to the needs of the teachers of the state, in whom he has a special interest.

Next to Mr. Rowe is H. P. Hinton, the member of the Athens chamber of commerce, who was delegated to look after the needs of the press. He was there with the goods, too, as every reporter and press photographer found out before the day was over. There was nothing that could be done to facilitate the getting of the news that was not done by Mr. Hinton and he left a most pleasant memory in the minds of all whom he

WELFARE EXHIBIT FOR ATLANTA

Several months ago the Georgia Congress of Mothers called a meeting of the different organizations in Atlanta to discuss the problem of child care. In the afternoon of the day following the meeting, the members of the council, state board of health, city board of health, president of the city, and the members of the city education concerning a child welfare exhibit. These different bodies were in sympathy with the movement, and the city board of health, which had no one was familiar with actual expenditures but were unanimous that Atlanta should have an exhibit at least as good as the one at New York.

The first welfare exhibit given was New York City's work with an expenditure of $193,950. Then Chicago followed New York in this work by using material from New York and added $30,000 to give local coloring. While many cities have had these exhibits, few are having one so large. Louisville was next in importance and gave to Chicago, cost something like $7,000 and was a most superior exhibit.

The purpose of such an exhibit would be to give a clear picture of existing needs of our children. To give those who have any say in the care of our children the opportunity to learn how to care for them; to bring into closer connection all institutes that affect the lives of children.

This exhibit would create an intellectual and furnish information that leads to action. Jane Addams says "an exhibit means a fair chance for all children as a reasonable basis for the aid not yet obtained, for preventable diseases are too life threatening too unhealthy, home life too barren, education, play too dangerous under abnormal conditions of city life." We feel that this exhibit is a realistic one that would mean better care, greater protection, and a more intelligent and more practical ways in which the community

The Child Welfare Exhibit would tell the story of the child in America, from birth to death. The exhibit would begin with birth, taking up the right of the child to a good home, the child's physical and spiritual needs, the need of birth registration. Then would follow the life of the child under these general divisions: the child in the family, the child in the home, the milk supply and

REAL SEA LION HUNT EXCITES CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge, Mass., July 10.—Cambridge had a real sea lion hunt last night. The animal came up out of the Charles river basin and invaded the East Cambridge street house, where it flopped about, barking loudly and fighting a crowd of watch restrained before. Attracted by the noise, a store owner leaped 4 feet through the window, amassing the heavy plate glass. The proprietor of the store then rushed out, the sea lion lunging for cash, leapt in a hurry, while the animal raised havoc in the place.

A small squad of police reversed tried to confine it in a packing box in the street, but the animal refused use and ate its way through the cover. Finally men from the Boston Police Bureau lassoed it and sent it to the institution.

There it was said to be a good specimen of a California sea lion, about 10 feet long and weighing more than 200 pounds.

"A rare visitor" in New England waters, one of the officials said.

Miss Wootten Makes Plea For More School Libraries

The Georgia Congress of Mothers is to be congratulated in securing Miss Wooten, librarian of the Carnegie Library, for state chairman of library extension committee. The original idea of the congress was to place a woman in each school to lead the mothers. Miss Wooten has added new force to the movement and will work on a broader scale as shown in her plea for school libraries. She writes as follows:

"When the mind of the school boards that be realize that public libraries are adjuncts to the public schools and not to the public parks there will be active co-operation between the schools and the library and every schoolbook will be a library book. Education from the local public library to supplement of reference collection which should be owned by every school is a definite plan but throughout the entire state.

Are Skyscrapers Firetraps?

In The August American Magazine John A. Moroso, a New York newspaper man, writes a story of fire, skyscrapers and heroism, entitled "Finnegun," in which he conveys the suggestion that skyscrapers may be danger

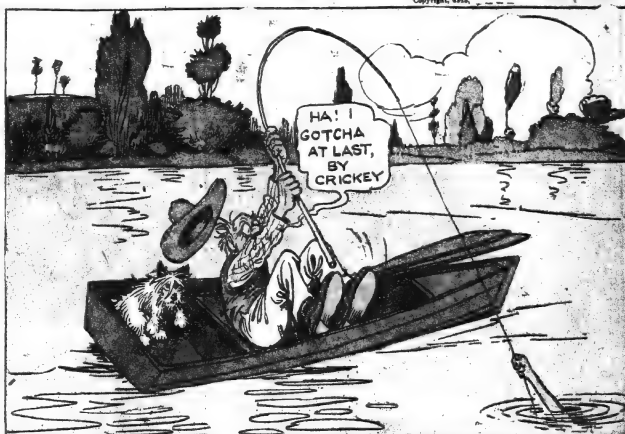

One day a fire extends above the fifteenth story. His idea seems to be that water in sufficient quantities to be useful in fire fighting cannot be carried up by ordinary fire elevators to such a height, and inasmuch as the elevators and other means of exit go out of business in case of a fire, there is no considerable danger.

SUMMER SUITS FOR THE SEA-SHORE

NO gown is so attractive for wear at the sea-side as the all white or the white with a dash of some brilliant color to relieve it from monotony. Each of the gowns shown here is in perfect keeping with the color scheme of ocean, sky and sand. The first is of white serge with collar, cuffs and vest of rich toned Persian silk, and sash of crimson, with hat to match; the second gown of white ratine is made with becoming cut-away coat and girdle and collar of emerald green satin.

An all white hat is worn which completes the beauty of the costume.

Coarse woven white linen was selected for the third gown. It is cut on tailored lines, and is simply ornamented with large crystal buttons.

A touch of color is shown on the hat and in the emerald green parasol which is carried.

THE AMATEUR DRESSMAKER

Talks of Cashmere Frocks and Lingerie Frivolities

By Marion Morris

However, I do not think that there is any cause for alarm, because this season's fashions have been more of a passing whim than the beginning of a new era in tailored styles. But even though my opinion should be mistaken, I do not think that the best dressed women in America will ever give up the tailored suit. They will wear it and wear more successfully than their foreign sisters can possibly do.

Therefore, if you should need a new suit before starting on your vacation trip, you will not be rated among the foolish if you get one of the very latest fashioned. A cutaway coat model will be quite the best selection if you get one that is neither extremely ably or too long, for if the Paris designers should order a radical change of styles, it will not be long before you will be looking no matter how long you wear it.

Such a suit with a rich striped plaid, green and blue-skirt and navy coat is commendable, because the skirt will be wearing when worn with a Winter top.

A few weeks ago, a well-known New York tailor introduced a suit with a man's regulation sack coat and waistcoat. Thus far, it has not been a success because its lines give a "square" rather than straight and slender air à la Houette. And it was snuffed at because women no longer crave the masculine appearance. There is a great difference between modes that are severe, yet feminine, and those that are masculine.

The deductions that the fancy winter coat is to be a more important feature of the street costumes for Autumn than it was in the Spring, gives rise to the idea that the director's fashions may be the inspiration for Fall suits. If the cutaway coat is not to be discarded, it is whispered that these autumn coats are to be of bright Roman (tulle) silks or of rich satins in plain colors after the ideas of Cheruit and Paquet.

At present, the tailored costume is as necessary as the quaint and flimsy frock that is such a favorite. If you are at the seashore, in the country, or mountaintains, it is visible before your very eyes that the best dressed woman in the community wears tailored, frocks of fine material in the mode of the day. She is playing tennis or golf. If you are in a flowered swiss clad woman drives a ball over the links.

THE tailored separate skirt should be an important member of every Summer wardrobe. Even though it is severely fashioned of linen, cotton, organdy, matalasse or rap, it does no mean that you must wear a mannish skirt and cravat with it. For a blouse with lacy frills will help it to complete a very charming costume for utility wear.

Mme. Paquin's latest Trotteur dress is truly feminine and yet can be included in the tailored category. It is of blue serge, with slightly draped skirt and severely fashioned bodice with long close-fitting sleeves of rich blue cretonne, and with a Cromwell collar of white broadcloth to add touch of daintiness without robbing it its charming severity.

SPORTSMEN coats cannot be described as anything other than severely tailored. I am not sure I am correct, but I am pretty sure that the baggy and shapeless blouse coats that have become such hideous sights. Many of the good-looking tailored coats that unfortunately have been called "sports modes" which surely did not give the men any additional glory, and rather a few more dollars, have been called "fashion styles." These coats in chinchilla, badger, and the like, have been the fad, but now fashion prefers them in white or navy serge, trimmed with large nickel buttons. One of the smartest modes is of white, bouclé with black silk braid. Yes, these are the coats in the long hip length! It is a season of so many bright colors, the vividly colored coats will again in fashion. Those in cadet blue and orange, peppermint green-and-white and green-and-orange are the favorites.

If millinery modes were to change every day in the year—and very frequently they attempt this rapid evolution, tailored styles would always maintain a unique position. At this moment there is such a diversity of such hats that it is impossible to say which is the tailored mode. Those that are trimmed with white wings or long black quills are most chic, but those with small flower motives are attracting

It is the useless-things-made-slimmer by taking in the side seams; and made longer by the addition of a scant flounce that terminates between the knees and the ankles, instead of joining the front and the back with a seam at the knee. The trousers and the neck are run almost ribbon that ties in front. We make them from any length of thin silk or batiste that we have about the house, and trim them with ribbons and lace and fancy machine embroidery. And we all have caps of lingerie embroidered or trimmed in colors-to match our jockeys, and made in the shape which best becomes our type of puckerline. I'm wearing a mob. Mildred has a north wind hat. Louise, a hat of the style of Brittany cap. Louise A. Leachman says she's never seen a hat like it. I haven't. FATHER so dislikes to see any of us running about the upper rooms of the house while wearing a kimono, that we've adopted the French fashion of wearing a pretty lingerie petticoat and a three-quarter length jacket, with flowing wide sleeves and a broadly-trimmed, low collar. It's quite belted, with

This she greatly believes her figure which, like mine, is a good deal smaller than the slightest, and the panier breaks the line between waist and feet. Her charmingly girlish bodice has a white lace yoke, deep and square and a wide collar of the same lace garment and a quarter of the sleeves which at the wrists are pulled into routine frilled-hand cuffs. Crossing the shoulders as though to hold up the skirt, are two long and narrow and broad suspenders of the cashmere, whose ends run through narrow sides of plated silver. The V-neck is finished with a row of small, round, white malines. It is one of the prettiest summer frocks I've seen this summer and Louise made it with very little help

WHEN the country storekeeper took down a pale green cashmere Father gave my arm so sharp a little nip that I knew he wanted me to have a dress from it and so, although not in love with it myself, like an obedient wife, I pretended to admire it. My reward is a really lovely house gown made in the simplest manner with a smart, domineering skirt and amongst the drags that we could make use of because the shopkeeper looked so hopelessly poor and oppressed. The spilted laws that the man showed us were impossible and the girls and I were wondering what use we could make of some of the queer old printed cuttings when Mildred's snapp young eyes detected some balls of fishnet. There never was a better material than fishnet and so we wished that it would come into fashion. Father was glad to buy five yards of it for each of us and by all those different colors and materials

MILKED, who occasionally goes to the extreme of simplicity in her garb, made her indigo blue cashmere into a frock that goes on as one piece, although it is built in two sections—a scant, perfectly plain skirt, weighted under its broad hem so that it shall fall in at the ankles, and gathered into the band that joins it to the blouse.

The conventional cut sleeves, a stiffened into slightly dropped armholes, are trimmed with "curved back" satin, a white chiffon and with maine (silk) that run almost to the elbow, and the neck is finished with a chiffon sailor collar fastening under an oval beige velvet bow. The same model would be great in all-wool and very useful for the winter. The model would have a sweet in many clothes because she could wear it innumerable times after when hopefully sold could get it dyed some dark color or black, if she were unfortunately obliged to put on moor

WITH BLUE CREPE CROWN

THE MANHATTAN
SAILOR HAT

BIG hats are back again in most artistic shapes in the new garden and dress hats for mid-Summer wear. We had such a long season of small chapeaux this Summer that for a time it seemed as if the picture hat of beloved memory was banished forever, but when scorching weather of mid-Summer was near at hand, Dame Fashion relented and imported from Paris some ravishing examples of the only kind of headgear that is much protection from the sun.

These new hats all have mushroom brims and lower crowns than the small hats brought out in the early part of the season. A very delightful example shown in one of our illustrations has a soft draping of pink crepe, flowers and foliage about the crown. The brim is edged with a piping of black velvet and faced with white lace.

An artistic garden hat has the crown covered tightly with pale blue silk crepe, a draped band of green velvet ribbon around it, falling in streamers at the back. There is also a flat trimming of satin roses, while a frill of Prince's lace is pulled on at the top of the brim.

The new sailors, which are this season principally used for sport, are, it must be confessed, rather mannish in appearance, with their high crowns and narrow brims. They should be worn fairly well down on the forehead, just as a man wears his hat.

For yachting, canoeing, a cool day on the links or any sort of active sport, the white felt hats with colored silk facings are now considered the proper thing.

Mid-Summer has brought back the all-white hat, trimmed with white wings and braids. A very smart model is shown in one of our illustrations.
